Center for Rural Affairs - UNL

The Center for Rural Affairs has a few job openings that may be of interest. All are posted here (<https://www.cfra.org/careers>) and excerpted below. The Lending Partnership Manager role is flexible location, and the Loan Specialist is flexible location within the region served. If you have any questions, let me know. Please share with possible applicants. Thanks, and be well, all.

Lending Partnership Manager

Do you love to build partnerships, network, and build strategies with local community organizations who are interested in supporting small business and homeownership in their local communities? This new position puts you on the cutting edge of making small business and housing lending programs available to low-and moderate-income, new immigrant, and rural community residents throughout the state. This position has a salary range of $48,000-$60,000 with top-notch benefits that has a cash value ranging from $10,000 to $29,500, depending on family status and tenure with the Center. Come work for a great organization that has great employees, all working towards one goal of strengthening rural communities.

Loan Specialist - Southeast or Southcentral

Are you enthusiastic about helping aspiring small business owners in rural Nebraska? Do you have a passion for helping create new business start-ups, helping entrepreneurs gain access to small business loans and providing business assistance? Your networking, prospecting abilities and energy are desired to help find rural entrepreneurs in need of small business loans. This position has a salary range of $48,000-$58,000 with top-notch benefits that has a cash value ranging from $10,000 to $29,500, depending on family status and tenure with the Center. Come work for a great organization that has great employees, all working towards one goal of strengthening rural communities. <https://www.cfra.org/loan-specialist-southeast-or-southcentral>

Grants Manager

Are you an individual who loves to manage projects, drive processes, and loves the challenge of grant writing and finding financial funding that fosters mission-driven work in rural communities? If so, you may be the next Center for Rural Affairs' Grant Manager Associate. If you have experience in managing grant process and proposals, submitting grant applications, and have a passion for rural communities, the Center would like for you to consider the position. This position has a salary range of $40,000-$49,000 with top-notch benefits that has a cash value ranging from $10,000 to $29,500, depending on family status and tenure with the Center.
